CHINA'S STEWARD DIES.

The China's otherwise uneventful trip from the Orient was broken on August 12 by the death of Chief Steward J. S. Darling who died from tuberculosis. He had been ill for some time and was attacked by a hemorrhage a year ago which caused him to take out a leave of absence for a time. About 11 a. m. on the twelfth he was attacked by a second hemorrhage which lasted about three minutes and from which he never recovered. He died at 12:30 a. m. on August 13.

Darling was one of the best known stewards on the ocean and has been in the employ of the Pacific Mail since 1894. He was chief steward on the Colon which runs to Panama and held a similar position on the Starbuck. He has been on the China for the last five years.

Darling leaves a wife and two children, aged 13 and 11 years, in San Francisco. He was born in Portsmouth, England, in 1863, came to America 25 years ago and was a naturalized citizen. The body was embalmed and will be taken to San Francisco on the China.

IROQUOIS TO LAYSAN.

The U. S. S. Iroquois, Captain Niblack, sailed on a special trip to Laysan Island yesterday afternoon, and also to look for the missing schooner Chas. Levi Woodbury. Captain Lyon received permission from the navy department yesterday morning to send the Iroquois on a search for the missing schooner.

Capt. Niblack is taking about a ton of supplies to Laysan Island, including onions, potatoes and fruits. The Iroquois also took the mail. Captain Niblack expects to arrive at Laysan on Monday and leave there the next day on his return.

While away the Iroquois will call at Bird, Necker and Garden Islands and French Frigate Shoals to look for traces of the Woodbury in case she has been wrecked.

On the return trip Captain Niblack will possibly call at Maro and Dowsett reefs to make a further search, but he expects to arrive at Honolulu on or about the 20th.
